

Producer's Note . . .

This is a tragedy about mass hysteria, based on authentic records of witchcraft trials in seventeenth century America. It seeks to explain how respected citizens came to be hanged for crimes they had not committed. It examines the motives of those who denounced them and of others who under pressure made false confessions. The play has lessons for our own time.